Door 2 — pane schedule

Eight panes on one double door. Four measure 900 × 500 mm and four measure 900 × 400 mm — all 900 mm high, so every design is portrait and the width is the only variable. The sizes are the client's own measurement, repeated across the three doorways; confirm each pane on site before the film is plotted.

THIS DOORWAY

- Same door, same eight panes, same measurements as door 1 — this is the second doorway, not a second design system.
- It leads on general medicine: general consultation, immunisation and minor surgery take the three uppermost panes, with CBC, laboratory, pharmacy and HIV testing behind them.
- Seven new photographs, none of them used on door 1 or door 3. Two long service names break to two lines rather than shrinking — GENERAL CONSULTATION would otherwise set at half the size of PHARMACY beside it.
- The directory repeats door 1's nine lines so the two doors can never disagree.

Layout as measured

Two leaves, two columns and two rows per leaf: the 500 mm column on the left of each leaf, the 400 mm column on the right. If the site is the other way round, say so — the artwork is width-agnostic, but the pane numbers would swap.

WHY THE TWO WIDTHS MATTER

- Left leaf reads outward-facing: consultation above immunisation, minor surgery below, CBC at the foot.
- Right leaf carries the laboratory and the dispensary, then the directory and HIV testing at eye level on the approach.
- Wide panes take the scenes with people; narrow panes take equipment, hands and bottles, which survive the perforation better than faces.
- Eight panes, seven photographs and one directory — none of them repeated from another door.
- Bleed is 10 mm on every edge, so the printed piece is 920 × 520 and 920 × 420 mm.
